

Old is gold

Planting trees is a great step toward mitigating climate change. But we seldom ignore, rather encourage deforestation. Older trees need attention and protection. They are the most efficient carbon-absorbing machines. They are a key to the world's net zero goals.

Read more...

Forests are a metaphor for life

- Home to more than 80% of all land animals.
- Necessary for the survival and livelihood of about 1.6 billion people.
- Preserves fresh water, food, medication, and raw materials.
- Every year, a single tree absorbs about 25kg of CO₂. Read more...

forest

/fɒrɪst/
noun

a complex ecological system in which trees are the dominant life-form

see also: jungle

Raise voice, not the sea level

In today's digital world journalism is unbounded. We all have a platform to share our opinions. On this World Press Freedom Day be an enthusiastic environmentalist by -

1. using the platform given to you to spread awareness about climate change and biodiversity loss.
2. ...continue reading.